Our President's Address

Spring is finally here! I hope you all had a great Memorial Day weekend with friends and family, as well as remembering and honoring those who have died while serving in the United States Armed Forces.

The SEMVMA board has been busy lining up next year's CE with more nationally renowned speakers to enable you to enhance your knowledge base and add units to your newly mandated CE. Watch for the veterinary and technician versions of the CE pamphlet to arrive this summer. The recent Ultrasound lab was well attended and very successful. Many thanks to Tim Duncan for spearheading this again. Dr Pope-Robinson's presentation at the Practice Management Seminar in May was a much needed look at wellbeing in the veterinary community. Tari Kern was instrumental in making this a success.

Mark your calendars for the annual SEMVMA Golf Outing on August 14th, at Tanglewood Golf Course in South Lyon. Get your game in order and come out to visit with colleagues and sponsors.

I would like to close with best wishes for a safe, fun, and productive summer with your family and friends. I look forward to seeing you at the golf outing and in the fall at our CE events.

– Dave

On May 1, 2019, SEMVMA hosted Dr. Kimberly Pope-Robinson for a full day workshop, which encouraged attendees to find their own path to sustainability in veterinary medicine. As veterinary professionals, we all experience stressors, both at work and at home. However, our response to these events is unique for every person, but we can support each other along the way. Dr. Pope-Robinson led an interactive seminar designed to empower attendees to find humor, empathy and connection with each other as we navigate through our days. Nothing is innately all bad or all good, but we often forget this in our busy schedules. She encouraged all present to find the "sinkers" in our day, things that bring us down, and recognize them in order to move forward. Those need to be balanced by our "balloons," the items that bring us joy and happiness, whatever they may be. Her presentation was refreshing and allowed us to think outside of the veterinary box and reminded us to nurture ourselves in order to continue to nurture others. We are one life connected.

Dr. Pope-Robinson lectures nationally at several veterinary conferences, so if you missed her seminar here in southeastern Michigan, you can catch up with her in the future. Additionally, she created 1 Life Connected to help guide individuals to find personal solutions to professional wellbeing and career contentment. For more information about the 1 Life Connected movement, please check out the website http://1lifecc.com , which includes her blog and other resources.

Reportable and Infectious Disease in Michigan

As we start the summer when many people and animals spend more time outside, we may start to see more contact with wildlife and more time spent with other dogs or cats. This increases the risk that our patients may also be exposed to numerous diseases. Please take a look at last year's reportable disease map and the 2019 Lyme Disease Risk Map. Although Lyme disease is not a reportable disease, it is important to educate clients throughout the summer on this infectious disease as well as other tick-borne diseases. Several Michigan maps of rabies are provided as well so that you can see where the final rabies counts were last year and where we are so far in 2019. Additionally, please take note that over the past 16 years, many of the terrestrial (not bat) rabies cases have been in our area of the state.

Keep in mind the three categories to reportable diseases

Emergency-must be reported immediately

Regulated-must be reported within 24 hours (Rabies and Brucellosis are in this category)

Monitored–must be reported within 7 days (canine influenza, leptospirosis, west nile virus, and equine encephalomyelitis)

For the full reportable disease list, visit the Michigan Department of Agriculture and Rural Development's website.

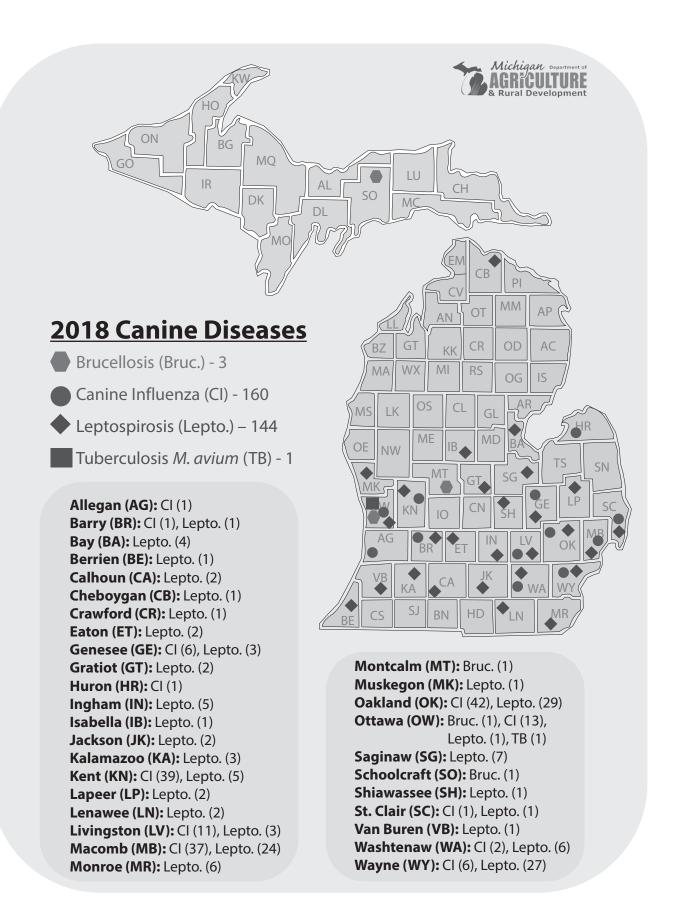

To report a disease, you may download the Reporting a Reportable Animal Disease (RRAD) form from www.mi.gov/dvmresources. This form should be submitted via email to mireportableanimal@michigan.gov or faxed to 517.241.1560.

Michigan Lyme Disease Risk Map: 2019

Lyme disease is an emerging disease transmitted by the blacklegged tick in Michigan. Local risk for Lyme disease varies depending on whether infected ticks are in the area. Several local and state agencies partner to conduct surveillance for Lyme disease in people and animals. The below map classifies risk upon field collected and infected ticks and reported human cases of Lyme disease in Michigan (see the legend for specific details). The map is updated as new information becomes available.

Blacklegged ticks are active from March to November in Michigan. They are commonly found in wooded and brushy habitats. Image: Centers for Disease Control & Prevention
